FROCK OF TAFFETA FOR THE DANCANT

BY ELOISE.

The tea dance seems to be gaining in popularity and it is getting to be an affair where one is sure to see the very latest style in afternoon frocks and hats. Just now there seems to be keen rivalry between satin and taffeta for leadership among the afternoon or informal frocks. Taffeta is really in the lead, for its crisp daintiness seems to be just the quality needed for heralding the approach of spring.

Here is a pretty outfit seen at a New York hotel tea dance. The frock is made of black taffeta. It is a quaint little model with a little round neck and cunning short puff sleeves. The bib and pouch pockets which give an apron like effect are prettily trimmed with clusters of flowers made from narrow satin ribbon in delicate pastel shades. Narrow fluting of the taffeta finishes all the edges of the frock and aside from that there is no other form of trimming. The short skirt and short sleeves denote the origin of the frock Paris. The hat worn with it is made of horse hair and maline is pleated to form the brim which turns up abruptly from the face and held up by little satin flowers. Narrow pink streamers fall from the brim over the shoulder, completing the costume with a youthful piquant touch.

expected that the great majority of these will attend Saturday's meeting. All former and present students are invited to attend. There will be dancing and a general social time during the evening hours. The meeting is to start at 8 o'clock. Plans for the awarding of an annual scholarship to the University of Chicago from the tri-cities will be made and arrangements completed for bringing some prominent speaker to the city to give a lecture in the near future.
